Multiple Choice (five points each):

Why do you want to serve Heeb?

I love Jews.

I hate Jews.

According to my high school aptitude test, my only other choice is Prison Bitch, which pays better, but Heeb has better hours.

Please circle one:

Glam Rock

Hair Metal

Short Answer Questions (10 points each):

How often in a week do you say the words "It's like that Seinfeld episode..."

Evaluate this statement: "William Shakespeare is considered by many to be the finest playwright in the English language, but if he tried to pick up a chick in a bar today, she'd just see him as a creepy bald guy in pantyhose."

What special skills do you have, and would you say those skills are "mad"?

Have you ever fantasized about Mayim Bialik? If so, what was the fantasy?

Essays (25 points each):

Imagine that Sigmund Freud, John C. Calhoun, Suleiman the Magnificent and David Lander ("Squiggy" from TV's Laverne and Shirley) spend a weekend together in Vegas. One hits it big on the slots, one marries an old flame, one wakes up with a tranny hooker—twice!—and one gets cast for a small but significant role in Jerry Bruckheimer's next big-budget blockbuster. Who does which? Explain.

Recently, scientists announced the discovery of a long-extinct hobbit-sized sub-species of homo erectus on a small Pacific Island. What explanation can you offer for the decision to name a species "homo erectus," knowing that it would lead generations of teenage boys to titter uncontrollably? (For extra credit, discuss the origins of "titter," bearing in mind the same question.)

Extra Credit (10 points):

Is there anything else about you we should know?

Scoring:

91 or higher: Congratulations! You've got the spunk, verve, savoir-faire and personal hygiene necessary to work for Heeb!

81-90: Nice try, but you're just not quite smart enough. We encourage you to take our preparation course—"How to Take the HEEB"—and try again.

71-80: You are average, lackluster and humdrum. You may be suited to work at KIKE or SHEENY, but you are not, and probably never will be, HEEB material.

61-70: The ADL will be contacting you in order to recruit you for an ad campaign intended to combat the stereotype that all Jews are smart.

60 or lower: How in God's name could you score this low on a test that has no actual grading standards?
